Wrecked on the Coast.

A Number of Vessels Caught in the Storm.

MANY LIVES REPORTED LOST.

Untold Damage Done to Property all Along the Atlantic Coast—Full Extent of the Great Storm's Damage Just Beginning to Be Learned.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Sept. 13.—The storm has at last abated after a continuance of five days and people here rest easy. Gladly indeed was the first train that arrived here from Philadelphia, welcomed at 11:30 yesterday morning. It brought meats and produce as well as passengers, and the provender was needed. Exaggerated accounts have been published about the conditions here which are not sustained by circumstances. There was no famine and no loss of life.

Now that everything is calm once more, a careful survey of the situation indicates a loss of about $150,000, principally to property along the ocean front. Although on the northwestern side of the city, householders and boatmen sustained loss to personal property by flood, and damage to yachts and the small sailing crafts.

The Camden and Atlantic City railway yesterday began running trains on schedule time, and all express trains of that road and the West Jersey will be transported on their rails. The Reading and the West Jersey tracks over the Meadows are badly wrecked, and it is not expected that they will be ready for business before Sunday or Monday.

The turnpike bridge between Atlantic City and main land over thoroughfare is down and all good supplies must be sent by rail. Across from the inlet is a solitary house known as Charles Smith's hotel, on Peters, or Brigantine Beach, reports have it that he and his possessions were all lost, but late yesterday evening it was learned that he is safe.

The schooner Palestine, hailing from New York and bound for Chincoteague, went ashore on middle inlet, Ocean City. The life saving crew at the latter place went to her assistance and she will be floated off at high tide.

From Sea Isle City it is learned that the sea wall is all gone, and the pleasure railroad track is washed out. The main line of the West Jersey railway, between Sea Isle and the drawbridge, is entirely destroyed. Rickers' cottage, Newland Star and Shakespeare houses, and the Surf hotel are all destroyed. The Excursion house is almost gone. The railroad to Avalon is washed out, and portions of the bridge over Townsend inlet swept away.

At South Atlantic City the houses of Mr C. Hugh, Mr. Sullivan and Guyer's cottage are washed away; McCulloch's wharf is demolished, and several yachts are seen bottom-side up in the waters. Provisions and necessaries of life were taken to the Aberdeen, at Long Port, and residents there, who cut off from all communication were in need of eatables.

A special from Sea Island City, N. J., to The Ledger says: "The storm which had demolished buildings, washed away railroad beds, destroyed bridges and prostrated telegraph wires in a way never before experienced here, shows no signs of abatement. The sea wall from which so much was expected on occasions like the present, has been washed away, except a small portion in front of the Continental hotel. The sand piles which extended along the beach like a series of bulwarks are leveled by the heavy waves, and the board walks here have been carried out to sea. Just south of the Continental here is a large gap, which marks the spot where a number of houses stood before the storm arose on Monday. They were carried away by the force of the waves. The cottages of a number of prominent people have been destroyed. The lighthouse was tilted, and the keeper and family were taken from it by the life saving corps. George Sayers attempted to swim out and save his yacht and was drowned. This is the only fatality reported.

The Inquirer's special from Lewes, Del., says. It is known that up to the present time there are twelve deaths as a result of the devastating storm. Yesterday afternoon the sad intelligence came that Capt. Tracy and his crew of six men had found their last resting places in the ocean. The history of the two nights aboard the Morse and Parker is one of suffering and despair. The survivors of all the crafts tell pitiful stories of their sufferings. The men rescued from the Tonawanda report that the crews of the St Cloud and Casilda were nearly all drowned. This will bring the loss of life up to twenty-two. There is great concern here over the missing pilot boat, E. W. Tunnell. She put to sea on Monday morning and on that day spoke a vessel. Since then no tidings of her have been received and it is feared that she is lost. She had a crew of eight men and four well known pilots.

The Damage at Cape May.

CAPE MAY, N J., Sept. 13.—The storm is abating and tide waters are running off the meadows through breaches where the heavy breakers cut passages. Not for thirty years has a storm of such magnitude visited these shores. The damage in and about Cape May to improved property has been comparatively small. From the steamboat landing, which was swept away on the Delaware, to Sewell Point, it is estimated to be $150,000. On unimproved land the beaches has suffered severely from the invasion of the sea. Speculative interest in sea shore property must sustain a back-set.

James V. Clark and wife, reported lost, has turned up. They took refuge when the yacht May was beached in Sewells Point house.

All day transfer trucks have been busy getting cottagers from Stockton, Columbia and Beach avenues, as they fear another storm.

The Mount Vernon company has sustained the severest loss. The breastwork in front of the settlement is badly wrecked. Back of it the meadows have been covered with the tides till they seem a part of the ocean. Holly Beach may be seen through the mist, but no communication is established. It has suffered severely.

Thirty-Nine Lives Lost.

WILMINGTON, Del., Sept 13.—Advices received here state that the three-masted schooner ashore at Slaughters Beach, Del., is the Orrie, and Drisk, of Cumbes Falls, Mexico, New York to Philadelphia, to load with oil, commanded by John Richardson. All hands were saved, but vessel a total loss.

Schooner Belle, of Dover, also ashore, loaded with sugar, for Milford, Del.; schooner Ella R. Simpson went ashore near Hog Island last night and will be at a total loss.

Specials state that three schooners and four barges went down near the Brandywine shoals. They were close to the schooner E. & L. Bryan, and all on board were lost. The barges were loaded with coal from Philadelphia. Estimate of lost on the above thirty-nine lives. No lives have been lost off Lewes beach. Pilot boat E. W. Tunnell, off Lewes, left last Sunday, has not been heard of since. She had four pilots on board and a crew of eight men. New Jersey pilot boat Edmunds was blown across the bay and grounded on the Jersey coast.

The Storm Abating.

WILMINGTON, Del., Sept. 13.—Advices by wire from Breakwater just received, say that the storm is slowly abating, but the waves are dashing so high that the stranded vessels are going to pieces. Fears of greater damage last night are not confirmed. Only the bark Dorris Eckoff went ashore loaded with railroad cars and machinery from Harlan and Hollingsworth company, Wilmington. The cargo is valued at $95,000 and the vessel was bound for Rio Janeiro. If the storm abates the cargo may be saved. Nothing has been heard from the pilot boat Tunnell. Fifty vessels are now safe in Breakwater. Reports of damage all along the coast is confirmed.

Storm Still Raging at Norfolk.

NORFOLK, Va., Sept. 13.—The wind is still blowing hard along the Virginia coast, and the tides are very high. Many vessels in Hampton Roads have dragged their anchors and none are venturing out. The weather is very thick, and reports received from Cape Henry say the wind is blowing forty miles an hour there. The telegraph wires south of Cape Henry are down. No news from Hatteras has been received. The tides in Norfolk yesterday flooded some of the lower streets and floated off considerable lumber from the lumber yards.

Wrecks off Chatham.

CHATHAM, Mass., Sept. 13.—An unknown schooner is sunk near the Pollock railway's. Her crew are safe aboard the lightship. A vessel supposed to be a three-masted schooner is sunk on Pollock railway's shoal, and it is feared that the crew were lost when she went down last night, as no aid could be reached them. Boats from Monomoy will go out when the sea abates. The vessel was probably southbound and missed the light.

Steamer Ashore.

NORFOLK, Va., Sept. 13.—A brigantine-rigged steamer, name unknown, went ashore near Cape Henry at 7 o'clock this morning. She displayed signals of distress and the life saving crew of No. 1 station endeavored to get a line to her, but had not succeeded up to 11 o'clock. She has a red or yellow funnel and came from south.

Domestic Trouble Leads to Suicide.

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 13.—Monroe Gray, a well known school teacher of East Carondolet, a village seven miles down the river from this place, committed suicide early this morning by shooting himself with a revolver. Gray's reason for desiring death was over a tragic breaking up of his domestic relations about two years ago. At that time, while living in Columbia, Monroe county, Ill., he shot and killed William Ditsch, a wealthy farmer, together with his own wife, having surprised them in a compromising situation in his own home. Gray was convicted of manslaughter and sentenced to the penitentiary for one year, but was pardoned after serving one month. The tragedy was one of the most noted ones in that section of the state.

Progress Made in Getting a Jury.

CHICAGO, Sept. 13.—Thirty-four venire men were examined in the Cronin trial yesterday. Most of them were business men who had formed opinions or had conscientious scruples against the infliction of the death penalty. The defense used up eight, and the state one of its peremptory challenges during the day. This is the most progress made in a single day since the trial began. Four jurors were held over night, among them being farmer James Pearson, who has been passed repeatedly by both sides, and who now looks like a possible juror.

Worthless to Our Navy.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 13.—The United States man-of-war Iroquois, which has been undergoing extensive repairs at Mare Island for the past year, was given a trial trip in the bay this week and developed an average speed of seven and a half knots per hour with a favorable tide. In view of this unfavorable result it is doubtful whether she will be sent to Honolulu as intended. The Iroquois was built thirty-two years ago, and at that time was regarded as one of the finest wooden ships afloat.

Preparing For War.

Russia, Germany and Austria Taking Such Steps.

TRANSPORTATION OF TROOPS.

The Czar Orders an Increase of Rolling Stock on Railroads to Facilitate the Mobilizing of Troops—Stanley Heard from Again—The London Strike Drawing to an End—Other Foreign News.

LONDON, Sept. 13.—It is learned from St. Petersburg that the czar has ordered an immediate increase of rolling stock on the railways in the southern portion of the Russian empire, and more especially on those on the Austrian-Hungarian frontier. This action is the result of repeated urgings on the part of the Russian war minister, who has taken the ground that in case of war the facilities for the effective mobilization of the army would be wholly inadequate.

Austria has within the past year added greatly to the capacity of her railroads for quick transportation of troops, and if Germany has not done likewise it is only because she did not need to, her railway system having years ago been brought into a state of perfection from a military point of view. Thus, while the three emperors are talking peace to one another and to the world, their ministries are apparently acting on the principle that the best way to avoid war is to be prepared for it.

At least this seems to be the only explanation that can reconcile the words of the rulers with the acts which they permit on the part of their representatives. The cost of the proposed improvements in the Russian railway facilities is estimated at 2,000,000 of roubles. The actual amount expended will probably be much greater. The actual amount expended will probably be much greater, unless Russian government officials and contractors have recently changed their methods.

Stanley Heard from Again.

BRUSSELS, Sept 13.—A cablegram from Zanzibar to the officials of the government of the Congo Free State says that Stanley on leaving Lake Albert Nyanza, endeavored to penetrate to the southward by passing west of the Victoria Nyanza. Failing in this, he traveled northward, and thus reached the eastern shore of the lake. Emin Bey accompanied him up to this point. After a long stay awaiting supplies, Stanley proceeded, leaving Emin, and marched in the direction of Mombassa, where he is expected to arrive toward the end of October.

Relief for Famine Sufferers.

LONDON, Sept. 13.—The deplorable condition of the agricultural population in Montenegro continues to occupy the attention of the government, but no plan of practical relief has yet been devised. Servia has taken the matter up, and has decided to donate land and furnish implements for a large number of immigrants if they will change their residence from Montenegro to Servian soil. It is thought that this offer will be accepted to such an extent as to greatly relieve the suffering in the famine-stricken districts.

The Strike Nearing an End.

LONDON, Sept. 13.—The mansion house committee announce that the feeling on both sides is becoming more amicable, and that only extraneous questions prevent an immediate ending of the strike. It is hoped that the causes of difference will be entirely removed and a satisfactory settlement reached.

Burglars Captured.

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Sept. 13.—W. F. Lamar and J. Boyd were arrested here yesterday by Sonoma county officers and taken to Santa Rosa, to answer to the charge of burglary. The house of Isaac Parsons, a wealthy resident of Santa Rosa, was entered about three weeks ago and $10,000 worth of valuable papers, including certificates of bank stock, mortgages, notes and checks were stolen. Officers have been investigating the case, and connected Lamar and Boyd with the burglary. The papers were all recovered from a saloon keeper with whom they have been left by Lamar with instructions to deliver them to Boyd.

An Electric Circuit.

RICHMOND, Ind., Sept. 13.—Yesterday Charley Glass, employed in making the extension of the electric street railway, was working on the E street line near the depot. One man was on top of the wagon, with one hand on the overhead wire, when Glass undertook to hand a bar of iron to him, and in doing so stepped on the tire of the wagon. The wheel rested on the railway track, and as soon as the hands of both parties touched the bar a connection was made and the two received a shock that knocked them from their feet. Luckily they were not much hurt, and soon recovered.

Bunko Steerer Arrested.

LAPORTE, Ind., Sept. 13.—McDonald McGregory, a notorious bunko steerer, was arrested here last night on information by the officials at Kankakee, Ill., where he is wanted for fleecing a farmer out of $1,500. McGregory came here as an attache of Wallace's circus. He refuses to return to Kankakee without requisition papers, and application has been made for the necessary documents.

Glass Ball Shooting.

BUFFALO, Sept. 13.—Dr. Bartlett finished at 5:30 p. m. yesterday his effort to beat Dr. Carver's record of breaking 60,000 glass balls by rifle shots in six days. He broke 64,017 in all.

ODD FELLOWS' MEETING.

Great Preparations Being Made for the Meeting of the Sovereign Grand Lodge.

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 10.—Next week the Odd Fellows of Ohio and adjoining states will hold a big demonstration in this city, in honor of the meeting of the sovereign grand lodge of that order, the sessions of which begin on Monday morning and continue during the entire week. The sessions will be held in the hall of the house of representatives of the state capitol, and great preparations are being made to celebrate the event, this being the first time that body has ever met in the Buckeye state. The sovereign grand lodge is the legislative body of the order of Odd Fellows for the world and makes laws governing the different state jurisdictions in this and foreign countries.

The order of Odd Fellows numbers over 1,300,000 members, and the sovereign grand lodge legislates for all these persons. Great preparations have been in progress throughout the state to welcome the sovereign grand lodge in a grand and imposing manner. For many years the lodge met at Baltimore Md., where American Odd Fellowship originated. It is composed of four representatives from each state and territory in the Union and in foreign countries having a grand lodge and a grand encampment. In Ohio alone there are 54,000 Odd Fellows, while Pennsylvania has about 100,000, and Indiana about 40,000, and it is expected that there will be a great outpouring from the ranks of these large jurisdictions.

To furnish them a grand spectacle, Lieut. Gen. John C. Underwood, commander of the Patriarchs Militant (a finely drilled military branch of the order) has ordered out the Second Army Corps, Patriarch Militant which is composed of cantons (companies) located in Ohio, West Virginia and Pennsylvania, to take part in a big parade that is to occur on Wednesday, Sept. 18, at 1:30 p. m. With lodges, encampments, cantons and bands of music, it is expected that there will be from 40,000 to 50,000 men in line.

The procession will be led by the Junia Hussars (mounted cavaliers, brilliantly uniformed), the celebrated Montgomery, Ala., Grays, the Wooster county Guards, the Baltimore, Md., Drill association and the famous Louisville Legion, of Louisville, Ky., acting as an escort to Gen. Underwood and his staff. The Louisville Legion is composed of six crack military companies, whose appearance in the Washington inaugural procession at New York was widely commented on. Behind these will follow the militants and encampments.

The sessions of the sovereign lodge, which begin Monday in the hall of the house of representatives, continue until Friday evening. Before they begin the grand lodge of Ohio and the grand encampment open their sessions in the Odd Fellows' temple, the former body to confer the grand lodge degree, so that past grands who are royal purple members can qualify themselves to visit the sessions of the sovereign grand lodge.

Then the sovereign grand lodge will be welcomed in addresses delivered at the board of trade auditorium by the following gentlemen: Governor Foraker, on behalf of the state; Mayor Bruck, on behalf of the city; Grand Chief Patriot H. E. Frost, of New Lisbon, on behalf of the grand encampment of Ohio, and Grand Master J. L. McKinney, of Piqua, on behalf of the grand lodge. Grand Sire Underwood will respond in behalf of the sovereign lodge.

Tuesday, drills by the cantons begin at the state fair grounds. Prizes in cash and banners to the value of $6,500 have been offered.

On Tuesday afternoon the National convention of Rebekahs (composed of ladies from the different states and territories and representing lodges of wives, mothers and sisters of members of the order) opens its first session at Wells' post hall. In the evening a civic reception is to be held in the senate chamber.

Wednesday evening, after the parade a reception ball in honor of Grand Sire Underwood and the sovereign grand lodge is to be held at the city hall under the auspices of the Junia Hussars. Governor and Mrs. Foraker are among those appointed to the reception committee.

Thursday the contest for prizes will be resumed at the state fair grounds, and on the evening of that day a military reception will be held at the state house. So far sixty-two cantons have announced their intentions to participate, and among them are some as far west as Wichita, Kan., and Denver, Col., east as far as Bennington, Vt., north as far as Ann Arbor, Mich., and south as far as Columbia, Tenn. The Chicago brigade and the Chesapeake brigade, the latter composed of cantons at Baltimore, Md., and at Washington City, have also entered.

In both Indiana and Ohio the railroads have made very low rates, most of the roads in the latter state having fixed the fare at a cent per mile.

His Last Act the Best of His Life.

BROOKLYN, N. Y., Sept. 13.—Oliver Samuelson, a painter, aged 42 years, fired several shots at his married daughter, Ada Whaley, yesterday, and at a young man who was visiting the family, and then attempted to shoot himself. All the shots having failed to take effect, Samuelson cut his throat, inflicting injuries which will prove fatal. The man is said to have been insane. His domestic relations had been unhappy.

A Steam Barge Burned.

CLEVELAND, O., Sept 13.—The steam barge Albert G Gowan, loaded with lime, took fire at her dock yesterday. It was impossible to extinguish the flames and she was towed out in the lake and scuttled. She belonged to the Kelly Island Lime and Transportation company and was launched last spring. She was valued at $24,000 and insured for $20,000. The cargo is worth $4,000.

Tanner Has Resigned

The Office of Commissioner of Pensions Vacant.

HIS SUCCESSOR NOT YET NAMED.

The Letter of Resignation and the President's Reply—A Brief Statement of the Tanner Difficulty — Private Secretary Halford Talks on the Subject.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 13.—Notwithstanding the denial of President Harrison that Pension Commissioner Tanner had not tendered his resignation or been asked to do so, Mr. Tanner has sent in his resignation, and the same has been accepted by the president as the following correspondence will show:

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
BUREAU OF PENSIONS,
WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 12, 1889.

To the President:

The differences which exist between the secretary of the interior and myself as to the policy to be pursued in the administration of the pension bureau have reached a stage which threatens to embarrass you to an extent which I feel should not call upon you to suffer, and, as the investigation into the affairs of the bureau has been completed, and I am assured, both by yourself and by the secretary of the interior, contains no reflection on my integrity as an individual or as an officer, I herewith place my resignation in your hands, to take effect at your pleasure, to the end that you may be relieved of any further embarrassment in the matter. Very respectfully yours,

JAMES TANNER,
Commissioner.

EXECUTIVE MANSION,
WASHINGTON, Sept. 12, 1889.

Hon James Tanner, Commissioner of Pensions:

DEAR SIR—Your letter tendering your resignation of the office of commissioner of pensions has been received and your resignation is accepted, to take effect on the appointment and qualification of your successor.

I do not think it necessary in this correspondence to discuss the causes which have led to the present attitude of affairs in the pension office. You have been kindly and fully advised of my views upon most of these matters.

It gives me please to add that so far as I am advised your honesty has not at any time been called in question, and I beg to renew the expression of my personal good will. Very truly yours,

BENJAMIN HARRISON.

The following statement of the beginning and end of the Tanner difficulty is official and thoroughly verified in every respect: Before his departure from Washington for his vacation trip, Secretary Noble on several occasions spoke to the president about the course of Commissioner Tanner and his clerks in the matter of rerating pensioners and also in relation to unguarded remarks which the commissioner had made from time to time. The president was inclined to defend Mr Tanner, and he did so several times. Recently Mr. Tanner made speeches at Elmira, Chatauqua and Milwaukee, which called for the strong protests from prominent Republicans.

Directly after the Milwaukee incident Secretary Noble returned to the city determined to bring the Tanner matter to a climax. He put his views before the president in a very positive manner and intimated that he would retire from the interior department if Mr. Tanner was was continued in office much longer. On Tuesday Senator Hiscock, of New York, who had been talking with the president about the matter and who had learned from him that it was likely to come to a climax, went to Commissioner Tanner, without authority from the president, however, and said that the commissioner would better resign his office, as, if he did not, he would be removed. From this interview grew the story that he had been asked for his resignation.

When Mr. Tanner visited the White House later, he learned that the president had not asked for his resignation and that Senator Hiscock had been acting on his own responsibility. Wednesday evening about 9 o'clock Daniel Ransdell, marshal of the District of Columbia, and a particular friend of the president, went to Mr. Tanner's house and in his private capacity, as he explained to the commissioner, suggested that Mr. Tanner would better relieve the president of the difficulty in which he found himself placed by resigning. He told the commissioner that the president had been his consistent friend, and that he had shown it when he gave him the office to which he was appointed, and afterward when he defended his course.

The commissioner said that he appreciated this fact, but for a time he was quite firm in his determination to force the president to choose between removing him and leaving him in office. Shortly before midnight, however, he gave in and agreed to write his resignation and place it in the hands of Mr. Ransdell.

Commissioner Tanner may receive some other office at the hands of the administration. None has yet been offered him. The tone of the president's letter of acceptance is generally considered not at all cordial, and it is commonly interpreted as unfavorable to Mr. Tanner's chances of being appointed to another office.

Private Secretary Halford, in an interview, speaking about the published reports of the conferences here over the Tanner case, and of newspaper statements bearing on the attitude of Secretary Noble in the matter that have appeared from time to time, said: "You know the president is not a believer in much talk, and I don't like to say anything about the pension office matter, but there are one or two misstatements that ought to be corrected. No issue was ever made by Secretary Noble to the president as to whether he or Mr. Tanner should go. Next, there was never any formal cabinet consultation about the matter, and there was no disagreement whatever among the members, much less any exchange of incivilities. The president had several times during the summer made suggestions to Mr. Tanner which he hoped would have a good effect, as he feels very kindly towards him personally. The question was not at all in the president's mind whether one of the two persons should go."

Secretary Noble was called to the executive mansion in the morning shortly after 9 o'clock. He took a bundle of papers with him. At the executive mansion he saw the president with Secretary Tracy and Attorney General Miller. They went into conference, and at 11 o'clock they were still closeted together. The subject under discussion was the Tanner matter. The president has given Commissioner Tanner permission to resume control of the pension office, pending the appointment of his successor, and the formal acceptance of his resignation.

The matter under discussion at the executive mansion was the disposition to be made of Commissioner Tanner and the appointment of his successor. Maj. William Warner, of Kansas City, who was a member of the house of representatives for two terms, and commander-in-chief of the Grand Army last year, has been sent for. He will arrive in Washington to-morrow, when the position of commissioner will be tendered to him.

At 11:15 Secretary Tracy and Attorney General Miller left the conference. Secretary Tracy said to a United Press reporter: "Commissioner Tanner has resigned. He is not seeking any other place."

Hancock command, Union Veteran union, last night adopted resolutions condemning the administration for accepting Tanner's resignation, and indorsing the latter's management of the pension bureau.

AMERICAN WORKINGMEN.

A Comparison Made with Foreign Laborers by the Scripps' League.

NEW YORK, Sept. 13.—The fifty American workingmen sent abroad by the Scripps' league to investigate the condition of European working people, arrived here yesterday on the steamer City of Rome. They bring copious notes of what they have seen that is new or peculiar.

C. T. Thompson, director and manager of the party, says that workmen on the other side are not to be compared to those of America. The foreign machinery is cumbersome and lacks the completeness that is seen on this side. His party was treated everywhere with courtesy, and ample opportunity offered for a thorough investigation. Mr. Thompson dwelt with particular fondness upon the reception the party met with in Paris, where they were entertained by Minister Reid.

Mr. Hanna, of Cleveland, who represented the iron and steel trusts, said his visit to the foundries of Scotland and other countries convinced him that the European trade was not to be compared with that of America. The wages were 33 per cent. below those in this country.

H. N. Ogden, of Cincinnati, who investigated the printing trade, said that the printers on the other side are where we were twenty years ago.

Mrs Barry, of Philadelphia, speaking of the workingwomen of other countries, said that in every branch of labor but that of clerks, the women had to work longer than the Americans and received smaller wages. She visited several districts in England where women worked as blacksmiths at the forge. Some of the women working at the forges were 60 years old. She also saw brickyards where the labor of women predominated.

Joseph Thorpse, of Murfreesboro, Ill., looked into the engineering work of Europe. He says the engineers' wages are 50 per cent. lower than in America, and the reason engineers did not come to this country is because they were unable to save money enough to pay their passage.

The party is quartered at the Coleman house, where rooms had been reserved for them.

Race Troubles in Mississippi.

MERIDIAN, Miss., Sept. 13.—It is reported that a band of regulators last night burned a negro church at Post Oak, in Jasper county. It is said that the race troubles have existed for some time in the county, and that secret meetings of negroes were held in the church at which violence was advocated. It is also reported that several negroes have recently been whipped or ordered to leave the neighborhood. The sheriff and posse has left here for the scene of the alleged disturbances. Persons arriving from Jasper county assert that the reports are greatly exaggerated.

No Citizenship for Chinese.

STILLWATER, Minn., Sept. 13.—Judge McClure denied the application of two Chinamen, Wing and Lung, to be admitted to full citizenship, the court basing its decision on Section 14 of the Chinese restriction act, passed by congress in 1882, which provides that neither state nor Federal courts shall admit Chinese to citizenship. In Minnesota, however, they may go on declaring formally their intention to become citizens, and by such declarations be eligible to vote at all elections.

G. A. R. Encampment.

GETTYSBURG, Pa., Sept. 13.—The Grand Army camp was deserted yesterday. The exercises and other events of the day kept the comrades in town. The veterans are departing as rapidly as possible, and to-morrow the camp will break up. Everything is wet and dirty and things look bad. The last few days of Camp Samuel Harper have been anything but a howling success. To-night, despite the rain, a magnificent display of fireworks took place on East Cemetery hill.

Beachhaven was less severely visited.

G. C. Rinker is becoming quite active in politics and offers to wager on the Democratic success this fall. Go slow George, we will show you how it is done.

Many citizens of our place took in the free show at Galion Thursday and Friday and report it as a fine exhibition.

A report is current here that Ed Monnett of Colorado, was killed by a horse last week. We do not vouch for its truthfulness.

Eighty one drunks out of 131 arrests does do well and no mistake. That beats our local option town however, but we expect soon to get there.

What has become of our ball players? Everything is so quiet.

Christ Ziller shipped his stallion to the West, Wednesday, to grow up the country.

The Eureka Milling company shipped four car loads of grain and one of flour to the East this week.

The farmers are having fine weather for threshing.

It is high time that the supervisor of the Red Bridge district was putting in a couple of new planks in that bridge as two are broken and it may save a damage suit.

The Argus speaks about a swamp on the north side of the square but to save our necks we can't find it. Is that the way people imagine things after they have been in Prohibition Iowa?

Ed Strawman has quit the book business in Indianapolis and come home to till the soil of his father's farm.

It looks funny enough to see George Ault taking the top rail off farmers' fences to fire his threshing engine.

Mrs White of Climax is reported dangerously ill.

Clemons & Potter have bought another horse and Guy is hunting hen roosts now.

We'll tell you something next week.

LaRue

I notice that Bell and others are out on the ditch route again in LaRue. It matters not as to the cost to three fourths of the advocates of this ditch, their tax is nearly nominal. On the first assessment I was taxed $25 on my land in the east part of the corporation—seventy acres and the ditch is not ten cents advantage to me. This first was contested and, though a miserable and unfair assessment, I did not appear against it. If property in LaRue will pay taxes for the next fifteen years it will do well.

The Democrats are having a lively time, but Clark I understand will win largely.

A young man named Lyttle was 'shipwrecked,' and himself horse and buggy found lately by the roadside he being badly hurt. The particulars I can't give, but learn that he is yet in a comatose condition.

Arrangements are being made to turn out largely at Scott Town on the 17th. I may not be there on account of sickness in my family, but will if I can leave home.

Miss May Copeland is suffering from a severe attack of bilious fever the symptoms being slightly remittent, a very bilious condition prevailing, vomiting of bile and great nausea, tongue heavily coated and becoming black, and great soreness of the stomach and bowels. Such cases, indeed nearly all cases are of late called typhoid fever, and they are likely to become typhoid if not successfully managed. We are having more fogs of late than for many years and fevers are increasing.

Some are cutting corn too dry to seed.

Cholera is still thinning out the hogs here rapidly.

I hope to be able to meet at least 5,000 at Scott Town on the 17th.

Industrial Fair and Exposition

On September 14th, 15th, 16th, 17th and 18th the C., H. V. and T. railway will sell excursion tickets to Toronto Ont. and return at the low rate of $10.90 from Marion good returning until Sept. 21st, 1889 on account of the Industrial Fair and Exposition to be held at that city. This exposition represents the immense agricultural, industrial and mineral resources of Canada.

Following are some of the special attractions: Burning of Moscow, international dog show, gas balloon ascension and parachute drops, Morris temple of illusions and Parisian mysteries, exhibit of live fish—largest aquarium in America, electric exhibitions—latest inventions in electric lighting and railways, and numerous other attractions.

For the Ladies Only

Mrs M. A. Miller of Augusta, Ga. has permanently located in Marion and fitted up electric bath parlors for the treatment and cure of all diseases peculiar to her sex. The mode of treatment is by electricity therapeutically administered by means of baths of steam or hot air, the former having an excellent effect upon the skin, removing all excrescences and leaving the cuticle soft and smooth.

Ladies suffering from weaknesses and displacements [illegible] are greatly benefited and often cured. Consultation free and strictly confidential.

WOMAN'S DRESS

Vandyke and sandal are new ecru shades.

The shades of gray now worn are absolutely lovely.

All the new browns have more gold than red in them.

"Or rouge" is the name of a new red gold color, with more red than yellow in it.

Pure white toilets, prepared for autumn, are exquisite in their artistic simplicity.

Half shawls of white muslin and lace are worn with hats of shirred muslin to match.

Several new and pretty shades of lilac and violet cashmere are shown for house dresses.

Full velvet sleeves are a feature of silk and wool gowns prepared for autumn trousseaux.

Black velvet capes are lined with white silk and trimmed with white silk passementerie.

Stuart frills of costly lace falling over the corsage are worn on many bodices slightly open in the neck.

In new autumn gowns there will be less use made of goods in combination than of handsome solid colors richly bordered.

Light colored but warm woolens will be worn all through the autumn until the stormy days of early winter impose darker tints.

Very striking plaids are imported, with a silk surface thrown up above soft wool goods and many of these are in Madras color.

The gray and silver shades are strikingly beautiful this season and in very many cases these tints take the precedence of all others.

The favorite ribbon for dress garniture is a rich gros grain irregularly striped with satin or else with a border of satin on each edge.

The dull surfaced ooze calf is now made up in dark brown and black shoes as well as in tan and russet and has a soft, luxurious appearance.

The illusion bonnets will be worn later this season than they have been hitherto and it is said that they will even be prepared for autumn use.

Embroideries of all kinds in silk in oriental and in beads will be one of the principal ornaments for winter toilets of all kinds day or evening.

Flower bonnets and brims continue in high favor. Directoire hats of black chips are trimmed with scarfs of black tulle and sprays of pink or lilac orchids.

The Venetian silk warp challies designed for demi-dress during the autumn are very lovely, both in color and fabric and their handsome velvet ribbon trimmings give additional charm.

By way of preserving the general average the bodices worn with evening dress are rather higher on the shoulders since the introduction of the falling frills sometimes worn with day dress.

THE ANIMAL KINGDOM

Roswell P. Flower, the New Yorker of note, shot an eagle with a seven foot spread of wings at Eagle lake, Ont.

A fish hawk has built its nest on a chimney on Jonathan Hoffman's house in Fishing Creek, Cape May county, N. J.

Louis Fenton, who is camping at Belle View, near Jamestown, N. Y., caught a twenty two pound muskallunge the other day. It was 41 inches long and 1½ inches across the back.

A Eustis (Fla.) paper tells of a pet alligator that drinks cider, going to the barrel and turning the faucet himself. He has been taught to use a palm leaf fan, which he handles with skill, to keep off the flies. Oh!

For years a Springfield Mass. horse suffered from a sore shoulder. A veterinary surgeon who made a close examination of the shoulder found a twenty five cent silver piece deeply imbedded in the flesh. How the coin got there is a mystery.

A negro on Mr. Rod Leonard's plantation in Talbot county, cut a snake's head off and was surprised to see about a dozen young snakes run out of the old snake. The body of the snake was then cut in two and about fifty more young snakes ran out. Ah!

A very rare specimen of animal life was discovered in Pennsylvania recently on the farm of Henry H. Davenport, father of George L. Davenport, of Maryland. Mr. Davenport set a trap for what he supposed to be a white skunk, and caught what turns out to be a genuine white wood buck.

In Brownsville, Schuylkill county, Pa., some senseless young men in want of a lark soaked a lot of corn in whisky and flung it to a flock of geese. An hour later the woman who owned them found them cast [illegible] believing them dead, picked their feathers off and flung the carcasses down a mine breach. During the night the birds slept off their debauch and next morning were found huddled at the gate in a naked and prostrated condition.

A curious scene was witnessed in a timber yard, Westminster, England. A sparrow was picking up the corn which had fallen from the horses' nose bags, when a mouse appeared and proceeded to dispute with the sparrow his right to the dainty morsels. A fight ensued which lasted for some minutes and then the sparrow beat a retreat. The sparrow had evidently been injured in the tussle, and for a time he was [illegible]. At last the sparrow [illegible] and finished the incident by killing the mouse with a whack.

Charles McElvy and H. W. Coolston of Caledonia were in our village Monday, advertising and making arrangements for the Scott Town rally which is on the 17th. We will try and send up a big delegation.

Samuel Clark and James Kane of LaRue, were seen in our village Monday.

D. W. Beckley will go to Galion Thursday to act as judge of the poultry at their fair. We know him to be a lover of the bird and think him to be a competent judge.

Cider making north of town at Snyder's causes our little boys to linger about the press in anticipation of a hearty drink, and three days after you may hear them exclaim that cider is poor stuff.

James Beckley moved to the Gladding farm three miles southwest of this place on Wednesday. We regret losing such a good citizen as James and hope he may be successful in his endeavor as an agriculturist.

Chris Kerwer is on the sick list this week. Dr. Sever attends him.

Sunday evening there will be a missionary concert given at the church. Let everybody come out and hear the program consisting of declamations, recitations, orations, vocal and instrumental music.

Chas Rex, W. E. Gongwer, J. H. Delander and E. J. Severns are attending the [illegible] this week.

A game of ball will be played here Friday between Prospect Stars and Agosta Stars.

There were several from our town in attendance at the Kenton fair.

One week from Sunday will be the last quarterly meeting on this charge for this year. Let everybody come out and with a [illegible] from their pocketbook place Agosta at the top so far as finances are concerned.

E. E. Davis who has been working near Huntington Ind. on the C. and A. was home over Sunday. He contemplates making a stay of it.

SEC. 6. Each representative district, in counties entitled to more than one representative shall be composed of compact territory bounded by ward or township lines, and as nearly equal in population as practicable, and each of such districts shall be numbered.

SEC. 7. The state shall be divided into not less than thirty-five nor more than forty senatorial districts as herein provided and each district shall choose one senator.

SEC. 8. The ratio for a senator shall be ascertained by dividing the population of the state by the number "thirty five."

SEC. 9. Each senatorial district shall be composed of compact territory as nearly equal in population as practicable and except as to districts in counties entitled to two or more senators shall be bounded by county lines.

SEC. 10. Each county having a population equal to three-fourths of one senatorial ratio shall constitute a senatorial district. Each county having a population equal to one senatorial ratio, and one-half over, shall be divided into two senatorial districts. Each county having a population equal to two and one half ratios shall be divided into three senatorial districts, and so on. But no ward or township shall be divided in the formation of a senatorial district.

DOXSEE'S PURE CLAM JUICE!

A Natural Medicine, an Agreeable, Not a Nauseous Dose.

"How pleasant to the taste." Shakespeare or Bacon?

INVIGORATING and appetizing if taken cold before eating in the morning. It tones up the system, settles a disordered stomach. A gentle, but sure stimulant. If a multitudinal cocktail must be indulged in, it will counteract its bad effects on stomach and brain. An absolute and sure preventive of sea sickness. Its components are closely allied to the gastric juices of the stomach.

An Antidote to Intoxicants

If taken regularly, fresh and cool, three times a day before each meal, it will put the stomach in such a shape that the necessity for stimulants will not be felt and excessive desire will be toned down to simple moderation. I shall keep Clam Juice constantly on hand to be served hot or cold, to my customers. Knowing positively from experience that it will do all that is claimed for it above, I will try in every way to promote its use, as it is not my wish to encourage excessive drinking, and if I can discourage it by giving away free the only known antidote I will only be too glad to do so.

Have also for sale Buckingham whisky, old Maryland rye, family matured, seven years old, the best in the country.

OUR NEW YORK LETTER.

THE EDITOR OF THE EVENING SUN ON NEWSPAPER REPORTERS.

Stories of Their Nerve, Their Quickness and Their Brains That Will Be Edifying and Informing to the Readers of This Paper.

[Special Correspondence.]

NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—The late Henry J. Raymond was the first New York city reporter whose achievements in his business brought a reputation for brilliant talents. Yet it is no disparagement to the accomplishments of Mr Raymond to say that there are not a few reporters working on the New York newspapers today who have done work as difficult as that which made Mr. Raymond regarded as the ablest reporter of his time, and who have performed feats that would in Mr. Raymond's early time have been regarded as impossible. Some of the work that reporters have set out to do and have done called for the aid of talents, patience, courage and a keen knowledge of human nature such as, used in any profession, would have made the possessor of these qualities a leader in it.

It was thought a wonderful feat when Mr. Raymond wrote out a report of a speech of Daniel Webster which, when printed, took up some ten columns of his paper, and so no doubt it was. Today it would pass unnoticed in any newspaper office.

Some years ago, about one hour before one of the morning newspapers of New York was to be put to press, a fire broke out in the vicinity of Washington market. A reporter was sent out, in the hope that he would return in time to get a line or two of news about this fire into the edition. It proved to be a fire of magnitude, entailing loss of life. The reporter learned the chief particulars, ran back to the office, seized a pen, and his copy was sent to the printers wet with ink. The paper went to press on time with a graphic account of the fire, a column long. The reporter afterwards said that he scarcely saw the words that he wrote, and his fingers were stiff when he dropped the pen.

I will give one other anecdote to illustrate this capacity of the modern reporter to do speedy work under great difficulties. There had been a murder in Connecticut, with suspicion pointing to a clergyman as the murderer. Word was received of it in one of the New York offices about sundown. A reporter who was just leaving the office to get his dinner was instructed to take the first train, and if possible send a special in time for the morning edition.

The town was a hundred miles away, and the place where the murder was done was five miles from the station. Dinner was forgotten, and, by good chance, a train was caught which, three hours later, landed this reporter in the country town. It was then 9 o'clock. At 10 he had sufficient news, and of a truly sensational nature, to justify a lengthy publication if he could write it and dispatch it. He could write it, but the telegraph operator was a young girl, who could only send and receive messages by the old fashioned method of printing on a paper tape. She was incompetent to send a hundred words, and 3,000 would have been an impossibility. A freight train came along, and the reporter boarded it, and by the light of a lantern wrote in a joggling car, over a rough road, steadily for three hours, and he finished his report just as the freight rolled into the depot in Hartford, fifty miles away. A cabman, incited by a liberal fee, took him to the Hartford telegraph office in quicker time than the trip was ever made before, followed by a threatening policeman, who thought some mischief was afoot.

"I have three thousand words for New York, to be filed at once, and you must put them through by 2:30," the reporter said to the astonished operator.

"It can't be done."

"Why not?"

"Every one is gone but myself."

"Where does the nearest operator live?"

"Very likely you will find two in the hotel just below taking their midnight lunch."

They were found, and some money offered them. The three operators cut the special into thirds and began sending simultaneously. By half past 2 the special was in the type. It had required a journey of 150 miles after dark, besides the overcoming of the other difficulties mentioned, to get it, but it was obtained.

The anecdotes descriptive of the tact of reporters in good address are numerous. One of the best describes the method taken by a reporter to hoodwink President Cleveland and a committee which had him in charge.

It was on the occasion of Mr. Cleveland's visit to New York to review the parade of the Grand Army and veterans of the war, in the spring of 1888. It was the desire of all reporters assigned to the work of reporting this event to get as near President Cleveland as possible when he stood upon the reviewing stand in front of the Fifth Avenue hotel. The committee had reserved a place for the reporters some distance away upon a stand. One of the reporters, however, edged his way to a place near the steps by which the president was to mount to the stand. He assumed an air of authority, and in a brisk voice gave commands which were obeyed by the functionaries who stood near.

At last the carriage in which the president was approached. The president dismounted and began to ascend the steps. The reporter, with his hat in one hand and with the other extended, greeted the president as he stepped upon the platform:

"Good morning, Mr. President. Permit me to escort you to your place."

The president, thinking that he was one of the committee, acknowledged his greeting and permitted himself to be led to the place he was to occupy, and then for a moment stood before the vast throng chatting to the reporter. A moment later Secretaries Fairchild and Whitney came up the steps, and these the reporter also greeted and was in turn greeted by them. Then he took his place beside them and directly behind the president, and the review began. It was all done with exquisite tact and address, and the reporter's account of the review revealed the advantage he had obtained.

He discovered himself to Secretary Whitney, however, because he could not control his sense of humor. The broad back of the president was directly before them. The day was hot, and it was the season of the advent of the house fly, numbers of which seemed determined to annoy the president.

"Mr. Secretary," said the reporter at last, "it has been said that there are no flies on President Cleveland. It can be said no longer, as you will perceive."

Mr. Whitney looked where the reporter pointed, and then, with difficulty suppressing his laughter, he turned and looked quizzically upon the reporter a moment and then said:

"What paper do you represent?"

The reporter told him, and Whitney kept faith with him, for he not only did not betray him, but made a place for him in the carriage in which he and Secretary Fairchild were driven to Brooklyn. Unless Secretary Whitney has since told Mr. Fairchild he does not yet know that the person who occupied the third seat in the carriage upon that occasion was not one of the committee of arrangements but a reporter for a New York newspaper.

Some of the most interesting anecdotes of reporters' experiences concern the ability to know news when they see it. Many columns of most entertaining reminiscences and traditions could be written upon this feature, but one will suffice.

Some years ago a young fellow, green as the hills where his childhood was passed, was employed by one of the New York papers at a trifling salary and to do a line of work intrusted usually to the poorest or newest reporter. This chap was dressed in an overcoat, which, when new, had served some other person, and in clothes which had seen great wear. The shoes that were on his feet were so ill matched that one buttoned while the other laced.

In following his duties he called one evening at the Madison street police station, a place where news is so seldom found that it is rarely visited by reporters. He was smoking a pipe with the sergeant in charge when a little bell rang. The sergeant went to take the message.

"What did the bell ring for, sergeant?" he asked.

"Oh, a little fire in Ludlow street."

"That is only around the corner; I'll go."

"'Tisn't worth while; it's all out, and only $75 damage."

"Well, I'll go any way."

He went, and the first thing he saw was the head of a fireman projecting from a dense mass of smoke. The fireman stood on a ladder, and he was receiving from a fireman inside a little bundle. The bundle was passed down to a fireman on a lower rung, and so on to the ground, and by the light of the street lamp the dead face of a child was seen.

"That's news," thought the reporter, and he set to work. When he had finished he had learned the story of the suffocation of ten children and of a most heroic and sensational rescue of many others by the firemen. It was a most exciting history, and gave abundant opportunity for the true reporter to make a story that would thrill all New York.

He went back to his office and reported what he had in hand. Sunday night is the quiet night of the week in newspaper offices, but when this green fellow had told his story there was excitement enough. No report of the calamity had come in by the usual news channels, and other reporters were sent out to get the story, for the new hand had never shown what he could do.

He was told to write, and finished a two column account in about three hours. When it was read it was found that the story was complete. The reporter who had been sent out came back late at night, but could add nothing to the story.

This account was the only one published in New York. It was that desideratum of the reporter and editor, a great beat, and yet on how narrow a chance was it obtained. It makes a fitting end to this anecdote to say that the reporter never needed to wear old shoes or an antiquated overcoat after that.

REV. AUGUSTA J. CHAPIN.

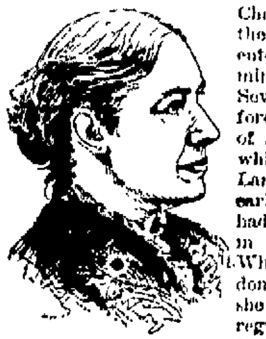
One of the Most Prominent Women Preachers in America.

[Special Correspondence.]

CHICAGO, Sept. 10.—A pioneer among women preachers, the Rev. Augusta Chapin, brought to her work, in the beginning, what very few "forerunners" possess, viz.: exhaustive and fitting preparation. Her career has been no accident. She possesses fine acquirements, which she has gained by patient and long continued study. Her scholarly attainments are such as have gained for her the M. A. degree from the University of Michigan, and also high honorary degree from Lombard university. In the latter institution she occupied the position of lecturer on English literature. Miss Chapin is also lecturer on American literature in the Detroit School of Oratory and English Literature.

Inheriting from nature a fine, even a masterful mind, Miss Chapin has been able to avail herself of favorable conditions for cultivating her talent along the line of scholarly inclination and ability, and among "modern lights of learning" she may rightfully claim place. Among the 165 women who are now preaching in different parts of the United States, there is probably not one who is more thoroughly the scholar than the Rev. Augusta Chapin. She is well known as a lecturer, and there are few women before the American public who equal her in forceful elegance of diction or in earnest, fascinating eloquence of delivery.

While not a reformer in the usual acceptation of the term, Miss Chapin is yet deeply and actively interested in all good work. She is ever found on the right side of all questions a strong and faithful ally. Her especial interest is in the line of education, and she considers the elimination of ignorance as the absolutely necessary first step in all reform.



REV A. J. CHAPIN.

There are now thirty nine women preachers in the Universalist church, and Miss Chapin was among the first of these to enter upon regular ministerial work. Several years before the ceremony of her installation, which occurred at Lansing, Mich., early in 1863, she had been engaged in active work. Whatever she has done in other lines she has performed regular ministerial duties during the entire time which has elapsed since she first began to preach. For more than thirty years—longer than any other living woman—she has been constantly engaged in the Christian ministry.

In personal appearance Miss Chapin is commanding, with a fine head and a strong face. Her dress is always plain, though rich, and without the least severity. The bit of exquisite lace and the handsome jewel, which usually complete her costume, evidence the refined taste and womanliness which are essentially a part of her character—a part, by the way, which lends a subtle charm to her individuality. She is wholly free from pedantry, and, like Hypatia of old, she deports herself with such unassuming gentleness and modesty that prejudice is disarmed and she is given an abundant welcome alike by conservative and extremist.

Miss Chapin has done successful missionary work, but she naturally appeals to the cultured and thoughtful, and her work has been largely among this class of people. Her sermons are clear, logical, scholarly, and withal free from the dust dry quality which render effete so many productions that possess these valuable attributes. She is alike mistress of words and ideas, and her vibrant musical voice and easy self possession render her both pleasing and effective.

For nearly four years she has been the successful pastor of Unity church, located at Oak Park, one of Chicago's most beautiful suburbs. This is one of the wealthy and influential churches of the Universalist denomination, and has increased both in membership and influence under Miss Chapin's pastorate; a result which certainly demonstrates the fitness of at least one woman for the ministry.

A Mean Trick.

Mr. Chugwater (laying down the morning paper and shaking his head pensively)—How strangely that "thirteen" superstition keeps coming up! Something I have just read reminds me of a sight I saw yesterday. A gang of men were carrying a large iron column across the sidewalk. I had to wait till they got out of the way. I couldn't help thinking what a terrible accident might happen if any of them should stumble, and before I knew it I was counting them. There were exactly thirteen! Just as they got to the outer edge of the walk one of the men"—

Mrs. Chugwater and the Children (breathlessly)—Yes!

Mr. Chugwater (picking up his paper again)—Called out: "Let 'er go, boys!" and they dumped it on the ground without the slightest accident. You see you can't always—

The Train Robber in Court.

BESSEMER, Mich., Sept. 12.—Holzhey, the young train robber who terrorized northern Michigan and Wisconsin all summer and was captured at Republic a week ago, had his preliminary hearing at this place yesterday, and was bound over to the circuit court on the double charge of robbery and murder. He will have his trial at the October term. The court room was packed with people anxious to see the man whose exploits have occupied so large a share of public attention since May.

Pimples on the Face

Denote an impure state of the blood and are looked upon by many with suspicion. Acker's Blood Elixir will remove all impurities and leave the complexion smooth and clear. There is an ill-timed kick on the part of a few because Mr. Cunningham's bid for crushed stone for the contracted street improvement was about $5 less than Mr. Kelly's, a difference of $5 in about $8000. But those disposed to find fault will remember that Mr. Kelly's bid for grading was over $925 less than Mr. Cunningham's, almost 25 per cent. less. There is no cause for grumbling over the recent contract.

Findlay Jeffersonian: Last Thursday Joseph Hartin, janitor of the M. E. church at North Baltimore dropped dead in his wagon while driving along one of the principle streets of heart disease. At the instant that death overtook him the bell in the steeple of the church gave one loud tap. Many heard the sound of the bell and went to their doors to ascertain the cause. The key of the church was found in Mr. Hartin's pocket when his clothes were taken off. What caused the bell to ring is a mystery. Investigation shows that no one was in the church during the day.

John Herd's pacing mare, Scioto Girl, won the pacing race at Kenton, Thursday, winning three straight heats in 2:27, 2:21½ and 2:2[illegible], respectively. Her chief competitor for honors at Kenton was the famous Scioto Boy, and horsemen say he would have been distanced had the flag been up.

This is the best time ever made in Kenton, and it is a record of three heats that is creditable to any horse and Mr Herd may well feel proud.

THANKS RETURNED

Not to return thanks to friends and customers for their very liberal patronage, which has already helped to place the firm with which I have been connected at the head of the retail grocery trade here, would seem unnatural and very ungrateful. Having secured full control of the business of the late firm of Thew & Manz, I wish, while returning thanks, to extend a general invitation to my old friends and customers and as many new ones as wish to avail themselves of the many advantages and extra inducements which I expect to offer them, both on low prices and quality of goods, to call. In connection with a large stock of staple and fancy groceries will be shown one of the largest stocks of lamps, glassware and queensware in Marion, bought at cash figures and will be sold at bottom prices. Call and see me.

Lost His Leg.

[Huntington Herald, Wednesday.]

A sad accident befell a brakeman named Blanchard, yesterday, who resided in this city and was employed on the C. and A. road. He was with Conductor Roll on a through freight run, and at Lima, while some switching was being done, his foot became wedged so tightly in a frog that he was unable to extricate it, and knowing what his fate would be, saved his life by throwing his body beyond reach of the wheels, but the one limb which he was unable to remove, was caught and severed above the knee.

The young man's wife was telegraphed and left for Lima on the first train. They are not very widely acquainted here, having only resided in the city a short time.

Assaulted a Woman.

A Waldo sensation occupied the attention of the court at 'Squire Payne's office this morning. Frank Reymond, residing near that place, was brought to town this morning by a couple of constables, and placed in jail to await a hearing on a charge of assault and battery, the warrant having been sworn out by Mrs. Elnora Warner. Reymond resides with Adolphus Miller, a farmer, and Mrs. Warner lives on Miller's farm. Mrs. Warner went to Miller's home on business and was assaulted by Reymond in a brutal manner by striking her in the face, kicking her and otherwise treating her in a shameful manner. Reymond had a hearing at 10 o'clock, which resulted in his being bound over to appear before the Probate court.

Married.

CLAPSADDLE—CHAPMAN.—At the residence of the bride's parents, on east Center street, Thursday evening, at 8 o'clock, by W. L. Neal, Mr. William J. Clapsaddle and Miss Ella E. Chapman.

A happy company of about thirty invited guests made the occasion very pleasant and enjoyable. May they have a long, pleasant and happy life.
